Short Blurb/Bio:

Dr. Jennifer Brett is a graduate of the National College of Naturopathic Medicine (1987) and the Tri-State College of Acupuncture (1988). She is currently the Director of the University of Bridgeport Acupuncture Institute in Bridgeport, CT.

A recognized leader in her field, Dr. Brett has an extensive background in treating a wide variety of disorders utilizing acupuncture as well as nutritional and botanical remedies.

Jennifer's vision for the UB Acupuncture Institute (UBAI) is that UBAI will lead in the movement to create cross-platform approaches to medicine and health between conventional, biomedical concepts and Traditional Chinese medicine (TCM) training and care. UBAI will create opportunities for working in a variety of settings, including private and group practice and in integrative care settings, as part of a collaborative health care team, and throughout the modern US medical infrastructure.
